Neighbors' protests cancel cell-tower plan

A third location has been proposed for a planned Verizon cell tower in Canton Township, after protests from residents of homes near the first two sites considered were successful in rejecting those locations.

After the first site proposed by Verizon, located on township-owned land near Hannan and Palmer, was rejected by members of the Canton Township Board of Trustees, Verizon proposed erecting the new tower near the Abundant Life Church of God, also on Hannan Road, south of Palmer. That suggestion, which would have brought about $1,000 a month to the church food pantry for the needy, also did not sit well with nearby residents who suggested the tower could negatively impact their home values.

Township Supervisor Phil LaJoy told members of the board last week that the church had notified his office that plans to allow the 120-foot tower near the church had been dropped. Under that plan, the nearest home would have remained about 250 feet from the tower. The change in plans came following a meeting of church representatives with about 180 neighboring residents early this month. Residents in Canton, Wayne and Westland protested the church site.

A third proposed location has been suggested by Nick Hermatz, the owner of Wayne Lawn and Garden located at 39915 Michigan Ave. in a commercial district. Hermatz said that he has land available at the site, although he said he has had no negotiations with Verizon about the issue. Wayne Lawn and Garden is located about a mile from the Abundant Life Church property.

Champions awarded checks for good grades

Three local businessmen are managing to change lives in Wayne and Westland.

Last week, the three men, Glenn Shaw, Jr., Richard Helppie and Jeff Styers, funded checks to students that totaled nearly $50,000 as a reward for their academic success.

The donors fund the educational program that provides a $200 cash reward to students who meet the conditions of a contract they sign with the school, their parents and a mentor agreeing to improve their grade point average by at least one-half a point during the semester. This semester, the two programs saw 350 students, succeed and meet those goals.

Among those successes is a student who had a cumulative grade point average of 1.86 and improved that total to 3.33. Another Wayne Memorial High School student went from a 0.0 grade point average, passing no classes, to a B average or 3.0 grade point average as part of the Champions program. Another Wayne Memorial student achieved her Champions goal for the seventh consecutive semester this year and has a grade point average which actually exceeds 4.0 She has applied for the Gates Millennium Scholarship, according to school officials.

At Wayne Memorial, 170 students achieved their goals and received checks, while another 350 saw improvement in their grades during the Champions program.

Several students in the Wayne Memorial program are now on track to graduate this June after failing 9th grade, noted Sean Galvin who directs the Wayne program.

At John Glenn High School, where the program was started for the first time this year by Shaw under the auspices of the Westland Community Foundation, one ninth-grade student passed all his classes for the first time since fifth grade and credits the Champions program for keeping him focused and off drugs.

Area mourns death of Kay Beard

The longest serving Wayne County Commissioner, Kay Beard, died Feb. 9 at the age of 94 from complications from a stroke and other ailments.

Mrs. Beard's political career started at the age of 57, after having raised her family in Inkster. She first became involved as a fundraiser for her children's school and then her spirit of public service and determination to improve local government pushed her to seek elected office. She was not easily deterred from her goals, applying her inbred Irish determination to her bids for office. Her first bid for state representative in 1972 was unsuccessful as was her first bid for the county commission in 1976. In April of 1978, the staunch Democrat was appointed to fill a vacancy on the county commission where she continued to gain re-election eventually serving a total of 30 years on the board.She ended her 30-year political career in 2008 when she resigned from public office citing her health.

She had been residing at Angela Hospice in Livonia at her death, her family said.

"I was saddened to learn of Commissioner Kay Beard's passing. She served the residents of Westland, Inkster and Garden City for 30 years and holds the title as the longest serving Commissioner in Wayne County history. As a dedicated crusader for the people she served, Kay provided a voice to the voiceless. Her spirit and legacy will live on in Wayne County forever," said Wayne County Executive Warren C. Evans.

Mrs. Beard's passing was also noted by U.S. Sen. Debbie Stabenow.

"I am deeply saddened by the loss of Kay Beard who will always hold a special place in my heart as a beloved friend, an advocate and wonderful public servant. My thoughts and prayers go out to Kay's family and friends and to the people whose lives she touched throughout her years of public service."

Kay Beard

Mrs. Beard was born in Detroit in 1921, her family said. She and her late husband, Jerry, were married in 1946, after he

Back in business

7-year legal battle ends for car dealer

The cars are different, the parent company has a new name and the building has been completely remodeled inside and out, but it is business as usual for Jim Schebil and his family.

After a seven year legal battle, Schebil reopened Fox Hills Chrysler Jeep in his building on Ann Arbor Road, exactly where he sold cars for 27 years before Chrysler closed his dealership as a cost cutting measure during a corporate bankruptcy in 2009. Schebil was among the dealerships that fought the corporate move and won, years ago, in an arbitration decision. It wasn't until the United States Supreme Court refused to hear an appeal by Chrysler that Schebil knew he could start making plans to reopen.

"I was confident after the first arbitration decision," he said, "I even took the building off the market and then last summer we knew we could move forward."

He said he started with local architect Joe Phillips who prepared the plans for the new exterior of the building. "He was just outstanding. He did such a great job," Schebil said.

He went to his golf partner from Shaw Construction, Marty Rapson for the construction work on the remodeling of the interior and exterior.

"We went through a great deal, trying to get ready," Schebil said. A Jan. 1 opening was the target, but the amount of work pushed the "soft opening" to early this month.

Schebil has been welcomed back with a standing ovation at the Noon Rotary Club and a steady flow of customers.

"When you hear people say, 'Hey, I bought 12 cars from you,' or 'I bought two cars from you,' and they are back in the showroom, well it's been just great," he said. "It's just great to be back. We've already sold 10 cars," he said.

"We went through a great deal trying to get ready," Schebil said. "We had the building remodel, all the new furniture, phones, computers, insurance, signage. We're treated like a new dealer with permits, licenses and paperwork from Chrysler. After 27 years, we had to start all over. It was very difficult, getting all the necessary licensing, but we got it done. We're rolling," he said.

He said he has "no doubt" he made the right decision in coming back and welcomes the many changes that have taken place during the past seven years.

"Technology has changed everything," he said. "Computers have changed the cars and have taken the business end to a new level. We're embracing that," he said.

Chrysler, now Fiat Chrysler, has been very helpful and supportive, Schebil said. The dealership now has both a website and a Facebook presence and his family has lined up to help at the dealership. Schebil's son, Nick, is the used-car manager and his daughter, Valarie Kardos, manages the office. Service manager Rick Dillon who worked at Fox Hills for 27 years has returned along with salesman Tony Pizzi.

To celebrate the opening, Schebil has offered a number of service department special offers, he said. "We are going to have an official grand opening, maybe sometime in March," he said. "But right now, we are just enjoying being back."

Director Faas explained the proposed amendment would require 3 feet from each owner. He offered to do a 12-month follow up on this new ordinance for possible reconsideration. Program for girls continues at BLOCK

Lead #LikeAGirl participants pose for group photos and get hands on in a cooking class.

In the fall of 2015, Canton Leisure Services unveiled a new program for young, at-risk women entitled, "Lead Like A Girl." Inspiration for the program stemmed from a 2015 Super Bowl ad that challenged the nation to rethink an age-old adage about what it means to do something #LikeAGirl.

Once considered an insult, #LikeAGirl has become an epic social battle to redefine those words for generations of women who struggle with challenges related to sexism, bias, and self-confidence each day. The B.L.O.C.K Youth and Teen Center is committed to being a part of this movement. This new initiative, serving a diverse group of young women between the ages of 11-15, is designed to change the way that these participants, and the community-at-large, thinks about what it means to Lead LikeAGirl…and ultimately live LikeAGirl.

"It has been an amazing experience getting to work with such a bright and talented group of girls," said Program Coordinator Laura Mortier. "In just four short months we have seen them grow into confident, well-spoken, and understanding young women. This program has allowed them to challenge themselves, discuss relevant issues that young girls face with their peers, and foster relationships with female role models in the community."

The pilot group of participants, consisting of 14 girls, will graduate in June, 2016. Qualified graduates will be given the opportunity to return this fall to serve as peer mentors and leaders for the incoming group of young women.

Monthly program curriculum that was developed to promote positive behavior, enhance social skills and encourage improved academic performance, included: "You Were Born To Lead," a special presentation by Michigan State Representative Kristy Pagan; "The Power of Good Habits," a health and wellness workshop featuring Yoga practices and healthy-eating tips; "Gender Stereotypes in the Workplace," featuring female Physicians and Specialists from St. Joseph Mercy Health System, and a Canton Public Safety crime lab experience; and "Civic Engagement," featuring an interactive presentation by Canton Township Clerk Terry Bennett.

Local volunteer and financial support has helped Lead #LikeAGirl expand the positive programming opportunities. More than $11,500 has been granted, donated, and awarded to this initiative from supporters like the Community Foundation for Southeast Michigan, Community Financial Credit Union, and the Kroger Company. Sponsorship opportunities for Lead #LikeAGirl are still available for individuals, businesses and foundations to assist in the development of future sessions. To become involved, contact Mortier at (734) 394-5376 or email lmortier@canton-mi.org.

Program initiatives will include on-site visits to the Michigan State Capitol and Eastern Michigan University. Additional activities will include a service learning project at First Step - Western and Downriver Wayne County Project on Domestic and Sexual Violence.

Interested future candidates are encouraged to apply through the B.L.O.C.K. Youth and Teen Center. Applications will be available on The B.L.O.C.K. Youth and Teen Center website at www.canton-mi.org/146 beginning July, 2016. Space is limited.

The B.L.O.C.K. Youth and Teen Center, located on the third floor of the Canton Administration Building at 1150 S. Canton Center Road, provides a fun, teen-friendly environment where students from ages 11-17 can participate in supervised after-school programs, social events, and activities. For more information, visit www.cantonfun.org or call (734) 398-5570.

New officer

The Canton Police Department welcomed new police officer Robert Pasick to the department last Monday. Pasick's oath of office was administered by Township Clerk Terry Bennett. All new police officers in Canton are required to successfully complete a 16-week instructor-led field training program, prior to working on their own. This program is designed to orientate and develop recruit officers, maximizing their potential and providing them with the tools necessary to successfully make the transition into their new position as a Canton police officer, officials said.

INKSTER - WAYNE - WESTLAND

Former Wayne mayor joins county task force

Former Wayne Mayor and current Wayne County Commissioner Al Haidous has been named to the recently-created County Task Force on Environmental Quality.

Haidous will join Commissioner Joe Barone, R-Plymouth Township, Ilona Varga, D-Lincoln Park; Ray Basham, D-Taylor and Tim Killeen, D-Detroit.

The task force was formed in response to growing environmental concern, locally and statewide, Woronchak, D-Dearborn, said. Barone is a native of Flint where lead contamination in the water has been a matter of national attention. He said the goal of the task force is to protect county residents.

"The Task Force on Environmental Quality will be active in gathering information on issues related to the environment, both to keep the entire Commission informed and to make sure our residents are well-represented in standing up for them on these important matters," he said in a prepared statement.

"The water crisis in Flint and continued concerns about air quality in Wayne County's industrial areas are causing more and more residents to become aware and engaged," Woronchak said, "and the Wayne County Commission needs to both stand with them and advocate for them."

The task force will be chaired by Varga who said the panel would provide the commission members a voice in environmental issues and examine ways the county can be involved in protecting residents.

Champions

to pass only one class during the second semester last year, passed all his classes this semester and achieved his Champions goal. He went from a .1 grade point average to 2.1 and says that the daily meetings with his mentor kept him on track for his goal and taught him what education can mean.

Students in the Wayne Memorial Champions program celebrated their success last Tuesday when they received their checks, and the John Glenn students and their parents filled the Hellenic Cultural Center to capacity on Wednesday where their checks were presented with much fanfare, cheerleaders, band music and a confetti cannon.

In addition to those who made their grade point goal, another 100 students in the program improved their overall grades.

There were happy smiles and tears of joy as the 135 John Glenn students received their checks from Shaw and his wife, Patti.

Celebrating with the students were their individual mentors, parents and district educators.

The students' success was lauded by Wayne Westland Superintendent of Schools Michele Harmala and Westland Mayor William Wild, among others.

Also sending his congratulations via videotape was Detroit native and noted pediatric neurosurgeon and presidential candidate Ben Carson, a strong advocate of the importance of education.

Shaw, who was repeatedly thanked by the students, administrators and officials for his commitment to the program was brought to tears by a standing ovation. He told the students that he hoped even more of them would join the program next year and that he knew more of them would make their goal and succeed. Shaw and his family have pledged more than $60,000 to the program.

Shaw offered a friendly challenge to the Champions Program at Wayne, telling Galvin and the crowd that next year the success rate at Glenn would improve to 40 percent, a 6 point improvement over the 34 percent this year. At Wayne, 27 percent of students who took part in the program made their goal.

The Glenn program is directed at the school by assistant principal Kimberly Ciesynski, who also emceed the Glenn celebration, and school psychologist Louis Przybylski.

No public funds or tax money is used to support the programs which are funded strictly by private donations. Shaw said he thought part of the success of the program this year at John Glenn was due to the involvement of the parents, which was one of the goals from the beginning.

He thanked the parents in the audience and told them that they were the major influences in their children's lives and urged them to stay involved.

He added that the mentors who volunteered their time to meet with the students to offer encouragement and help were also crucial to the program. Students could choose a mentor from a wide roster of volunteers which included more than 100 teachers, school staff members, police officers and the mayor.

In addition to the students receiving the $200 checks, all the John Glenn students who improved their grades as part of the program received a backpack sponsored by Toarmina's Pizza and Mickey's Dairy Twist in Westland.

"You are changing lives," Ciesynski told the visibly moved Shaw as she introduced him to a standing ovation from the audience.

Murder investigations continue

Michigan State Police and Inkster police detectives are warning the public about a national trend of criminals luring victims to meet for internet transactions.

Two recent homicides in the city of Inkster may have been the result of criminals luring the victims into a robbery or fraud situation using the internet.

"Citizens are reminded to use extreme caution when arranging to meet with people they don't know in areas they don't know to conduct cash transactions," a statement from the Michigan State Police said.

The Michigan State Police and other law enforcement agencies offer space to conduct these types of transactions, the statement said.

Detectives from the Inkster Police Department and the Michigan State Police are continuing the investigation into two recent fatal shootings during daylight hours in the city.

James Ngoc Ngyen, a 53-year-old man from Dearborn Heights, was reportedly shot while sitting in his car on Magnolia Street at about 1:30 p.m. Feb. 1.

Witnesses described the shooter as a light-skinned, thin black man about 5-feet, 7-inches tall wearing a dark gray hooded zipper jacket, dark jeans and "timberland" style shoes.

Police are also continuing their search for the suspect in the killing of Dakari Lamar Mitchell, a 22-year-old man from Detroit, who was discovered at about 1:45 p.m. Feb. 7 lying in the street in front of 28000 Glenwood Street, in front of his car.

He was transported to a local hospital for treatment of a gunshot wound to his chest and died of his injuries at the hospital.

The suspect in this shooting was described by witnesses as a black man wearing dreadlocks and dressed in a dark-colored coat.

Both police agencies have requested help from the public in finding the shooters in these cases. Anyone who may have information about the shooting is asked to call 855-MICH-TIP or crime stoppers at 800-SPEAK-UP.

Council confirms appointment

Former Westland Fire Chief Mark Neal has been re-appointed to a five-year term on the William Faust Public Library of Westland Board of Directors

Neal's appointment was confirmed by the members of the city council last Monday during their regular meeting.

The Library Board includes five members appointed by the mayor and confirmed by members of city council. The board members oversees the library director and the operations of the William P. Faust Public Library. Board meetings take place at 7 p.m. the second Wednesday of each month in the Library Community Meeting Room, located at 6123 Central City Parkway.

Neal has lived in the city for 19 years and has served as president of the library board since he was first appointed in 2011. He and his wife, Patti, who serves on the Civil Service Commission, have three children and nine grandchildren.

"I look forward to working with the library board and library staff to guide the library through the proposed expansion project," Neal said. "The library expansion will allow us to improve e-services, computer programs and provide quiet study areas."

Helping hands

Romulus students join water drive

A water drive to help the residents of Flint resulted in one of the largest one-day efforts seen by officials at Eastern Michigan University.

According to Mark Edwards, coordinator of school relations for Romulus Community Schools, the district partnered with the student government committee at Eastern Michigan University and the Bright Futures after school program to help the residents of Flint.

"We know that collecting water will only help in the short term, however it's what we're able to do," said Edwards. The district also showed their students an educational video produced by the Romulus middle school Bright Future program to help educate them about the environmental and social ramifications of the crisis in Flint.

Wick Elementary School students stepped up to do their part by collecting funds to assist with recycling the thousands of plastic water bottles, which has been also been an issue in Flint where the water system has been contaminated with lead and is unsafe to drink.

Edwards said that word spread quickly throughout Romulus about the Feb. 6 one-day water drive which was announced on social media, through a district-wide automated robo-call and posters.

"In just over three hours people came pouring in with cases of water in hand," Edwards said. The goal was to fill a bus with bottled water to be taken to Eastern Michigan University for the 70 mile trip to Flint.

"I had no idea it would be this successful, it shows the compassion that the people in our city have for others. We are a hard working group and I think we realize that it could be us," he said.

James Jameson, operations assistant for the Convocation Center at Eastern Michigan University, was also impressed with the participation from the Romulus schools. He said that the delivery from Romulus was the largest one-day drop he had seen, Edwards said.

Students from Romulus High School, along with educators and members of the community, worked to fill a school bus with bottled water for Flint residents during a one-day effort earlier this month.

On the job

Driver charged in deaths

A 40-year-old Kent County truck driver has been criminally charged in the 42-vehicle pile up on I-94 last month that claimed the lives of two Northville residents.

Police said that Timothy Martinez was driving recklessly Jan. 17 during a heavy lake effect snow on I-94 between Hartford and Watervliet. His actions caused a chain-reaction pileup which included five semi-trucks and more than 37 other vehicles and closed the roadway for nearly an entire day after multiple crashes occurred at about 2 p.m.

Michigan State Troopers said that more than 12 people were injured in the pileup including a Van Buren County Sheriff deputy who was treating a victim at the scene when he was struck. The deputy is reportedly recovering from those injuries.

Killed were 78-year-old Carol Griesemer and her son, 54-year-old Andrew Griesemer, both of Northville. Police said that both were critically injured in the chain reaction collision and both later succumbed to the injuries sustained in the crash.

Troopers said that more than five crashes involving semi-trucks and vehicles were the result of Martinez' driving in an unsafe manner for the conditions.

The reckless driving charges he now faces carry a penalty of up to 15 years in prison.
